Norwegian employers report encouraging signs for job seekers in the January-March time frame. While 13% of employers expect to increase staffing levels, 5% anticipate a decrease and 80% forecast no change, resulting in a Net Employment Outlook of +8%.

Once the data is adjusted to allow for seasonal variation, the Outlook stands at +7%, and is the strongest reported in more than five years. Hiring prospects improve by 2 percentage points when compared with the previous quarter, and are 3 percentage points stronger when compared with the first quarter of 2017.

Throughout this report, we use the term “Net Employment Outlook.” This figure is derived by taking the percentage of employers anticipating total employment to increase and subtracting from this the percentage expecting to see a decrease in employment at their location in the next quarter. The result of this calculation is the Net Employment Outlook.

From this point forward, all data discussed in the commentary is seasonally adjusted, unless stated otherwise.

Global Employment Outlook

ManpowerGroup interviewed nearly 59,000 employers across 43 countries and territories to forecast labor market activity* in 1Q 2018. All participants were asked, “How do you anticipate total employment at your location to change in the three months to the end of March 2018 as compared to the current quarter?”

According to the survey, workforce gains of varying margins are forecast by employers in 41 of 43 countries and territories during the January-March time frame. And for the second consecutive quarter since the global financial crisis in 2009, employers report no negative Outlooks among the 43 countries and territories. Additionally, employers in a number of countries, including Australia, Japan, Norway, Poland, Romania and the United States, report their strongest hiring plans in five years or more. There are also signs that the volatility recently observed in some countries most notably in Brazil, China and India is declining.

Overall, forecasts improve or remain stable in most countries and territories. When compared with the final quarter of 2017, hiring prospects improve in 20 of 43 countries and territories, are unchanged in eight, and decline in 15. When compared with this time one year ago, hiring intentions improve in 26 of the 43 countries and territories, are unchanged in six, and weaken in only 11.

Workforce gains are forecast in 23 of 25 countries in the Europe, Middle East & Africa (EMEA) region through the first three months of 2018. Hiring plans improve in 10 countries quarter-over-quarter, weaken in 10, and are unchanged in five. In a year-over-year comparison, Outlooks improve in 14 countries, decline in eight and are unchanged in three. Job seekers in Romania and Slovenia may benefit from the strongest EMEA region first-quarter hiring plans, while the weakest forecasts are reported in Austria and Italy, with employers in both countries predicting a flat hiring pace through the first three months of the year.

Payrolls are expected to increase in all eight Asia Pacific countries and territories, and Outlooks are trending generally stronger. The forecast improves by varying margins in five countries and territories in comparison to the fourth-quarter results, weakens in only two and is unchanged in one. In a year-over-year comparison hiring plans strengthen in six and are unchanged in the remaining two. Employers in Taiwan report the most optimistic forecast in the region, as well as across the globe. The region’s weakest forecasts are reported by employers in China and Singapore.

Positive Outlooks are reported in all 10 countries surveyed in the Americas. Hiring confidence strengthens in five countries, dips in three and is unchanged in two when compared to the last three months of 2017. In the year-over-year comparison, hiring activity is expected to pick up in six countries, declines in three and remains unchanged in one. Employers in the United States and Costa Rica report the strongest first-quarter hiring plans while those in Brazil and Panama report the weakest.

International Comparisons – EMEA

More than 20,000 employers in 25 countries in the Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) region were interviewed for the 1Q 2018 survey. Employers in 23 of 25 countries plan to add to their payrolls during the January-March time frame. Outlooks are mixed across the EMEA region with few signs of any prominent region-wide trends.

In both Romania and Slovenia, payrolls are expected to grow by varying degrees in all industry sectors and in all regions. The brightest job prospects in both countries are reported in the Manufacturing sector. Hungary's job seekers can also expect to find the most opportunities in the Manufacturing sector through the first three months of 2018.

Employers in the UK continue to expect modest payroll growth in all industry sectors and most regions. However, ongoing concerns over Brexit may be straining employer confidence and the overall forecast dips to its weakest level since 4Q 2012.

France's Outlook also remains modest but softens in comparison to three months ago. Employers forecast some payroll gains in most industry sectors and regions. However, the overall Outlook is dragged down somewhat by a steep year-over-year decline in the Transport, Storage & Communications sector.

German employers start the new year by continuing to report modest hiring intentions. However, Outlooks soften by varying degrees in most industry sectors in both quarter-over-quarter and year-over-year comparisons. As in France, employer confidence in the Transport, Storage & Communications sector continues to lag with the sector's forecast dipping to its weakest level in more than four years.

The Outlook in Finland is unchanged from the prior quarter and remains the most optimistic forecast reported by Finnish employers to date; hiring plans in the Finance, Insurance, Real Estate & Business Services and the Public & Social sectors are also the strongest reported since the country's survey launched.

Norwegian employers anticipate a similarly encouraging hiring environment with quarter-over-quarter and year-over-year gains reported in the majority of industry sectors. The Swedish Outlook remains modest despite considerable gains in the Restaurant & Hotel sector in comparison to both the prior quarter and last year at this time.

Elsewhere across EMEA, hiring activity is expected to be more reserved. Dutch employers forecast some payroll growth, but the Outlook softens in comparison to the last three months of 2017 and last year at this time. Similarly, the Swiss Outlook remains subdued but bounces back slightly from negative forecasts reported in the prior quarter and the first quarter of 2017. Hiring activity is expected to be similar in Belgium where the first-quarter forecast anticipates some job growth but at a slightly slower pace than in 4Q 2017 and 1Q 2017.

As noted above, the weakest EMEA forecasts—as well as across the globe—are reported in Austria and Italy where employers are expecting the labor market to remain flat through the first three months of the year.

About the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey

The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is conducted quarterly to measure employers' intentions to increase or decrease the number of employees in their workforces during the next quarter. ManpowerGroup's comprehensive forecast of employer hiring plans has been running for more than 50 years and is one of the most trusted surveys of employment activity in the world. Various factors underpin the success of the Manpower Employment Outlook Survey:

Unique: It is unparalleled in its size, scope, longevity and area of focus.

Projective: The Manpowergroup Employment Outlook Survey is the most extensive, forward-looking employment survey in the world, asking employers to forecast employment over the next quarter. In contrast, other surveys and studies focus on retrospective data to report on what occurred in the past.

Independent: The survey is conducted with a representative sample of employers from throughout the countries and territories in which it is conducted. The survey participants are not derived from ManpowerGroup's customer base.

Robust: The survey is based on interviews with nearly 59,000 public and private employers across 43 countries and territories to measure anticipated employment trends each quarter. This sample allows for analysis to be performed across specific sectors and regions to provide more detailed information.

Focused: For more than 55 years the survey has derived all of its information from a single question:

For the 1Q 2018 research, all employers participating in the survey worldwide are asked the same question, "How do you anticipate total employment at your location to change in the three months to the end of March 2018 as compared to the current quarter?"

Methodology

The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is conducted using a validated methodology, in accordance with the highest standards in market research. The survey has been structured to be representative of each national economy. The margin of error for all national, regional and global data is not greater than +/- 3.9%.

Net Employment Outlook

Throughout this report, we use the term "Net Employment Outlook." This figure is derived by taking the percentage of employers anticipating an increase in hiring activity and subtracting from this the percentage of employers expecting to see a decrease in employment at their location in the next quarter. The result of this calculation is the Net Employment Outlook. Net Employment Outlooks for countries and territories that have accumulated at least 17 quarters of data are reported in a seasonally adjusted format unless otherwise stated.

Seasonal adjustments have been applied to the data for all participating countries except Portugal. ManpowerGroup intends to add seasonal adjustments to the Portuguese data in the future, as more historical data is compiled. Note that in Quarter 2 2008, ManpowerGroup adopted the TRAMO-SEATS method of seasonal adjustment for data.
